Abstract

Fachhochschule Salzburg and various partners from industry and utilities are collaborating in the project MoniGeiFluid to

- Project MoniGeoFluid – Monitoring in low temperature district heating and cooling networks
 - o Project description and objectives
 - o Measurements on laboratory test stand with various liquids
 - o Field test in real systems
 - o Intermediate results

- Low temperature district heating and cooling networks
 - o Description of low temperature district heating and cooling networks
 - o Energy measurement in these systems
 - o Drawbacks of current solutions
 - o Required accuracy from application view
